DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 6/4/07 has been entered.

REJECTIONS WITHDRAWN

2. All of the 103(a) rejections previously set forth in the final rejection of 11/30/06, pages 2-3, paragraphs 3-4 have been withdrawn.

REJECTIONS REPEATED

3. There are no rejections repeated.

NEW REJECTIONS

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-8, 10-14, 16-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wirth (US 5171640) in view of Beuzelin et al. (GB 2288177, cited by applicant) and Gusavage et al. (EP 0 707 955, cited by applicant).

Wirth discloses multilayer materials containing ethylene/vinyl alcohol copolymer (a) and styrene-based polymer layers (b) in a b/a/c structure (see claim 7 at col. 6). The materials exemplified, maleic anhydride modified styrene (column 2, lines 20-32), includes ones in which the (b) layer is 69 to 79% of the total material (see col. 3, Table 1), based upon the thickness of the (b) layers and the sum of the thicknesses of all layers, with the modified styrene-based polymer being present in the outer bonding layer in a ratio with respect to the weight of the gas-barrier resin of at least 0.1:1 (since layer (a) has a thickness of from 20 to 1500 microns and layer (b) has a thickness of from 100 to 1500 microns, column 2, lines 11-32).

Wirth does not disclose that the modified styrene based polymer having polar groups thereon.

Beuzelin et al. disclose the modified styrene based polymer having polar groups thereon (page 7, line 24 through page 8, line 9) in a food/tray type container (page 1, lines 7-15 and page 15, lines 17-23) for the purpose of providing improved adhesive strength and resistance to separation of layers (page 15, lines 17-23).

Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time applicant's invention was made to have provided the modified styrene based polymer having polar groups thereon in the multilayer materials of Wirth in order to provide improved adhesive strength and resistance to separation of layers as taught or suggested by Beuzelin.

Beuzelin discloses a polystyrene layer as a substrate (page 13, lines 9-15).

Wirth fails to disclose multi-layer materials wherein the overall thickness is from about 10 to 80 microns and wherein the substrate comprises foam.

Gusavage discloses multi-layer materials wherein the overall thickness is from about 10 to 80 microns (since 57 microns is disclosed, see page 8, Example 1) and wherein the substrate comprises foam (abstract) in a food packaging material (page 2, lines 5-10) for the purpose of providing reduced blistering (page 2, lines 26-30) and to lower cost of production by reducing the amount of materials consumed.

Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time applicant's invention was made to have provided multi-layer materials wherein the overall thickness is from about 10 to 80 microns and wherein the substrate comprises foam in the multi-layer material of Wirth in order to provide reduced blistering and to lower cost of production by reducing the amount of materials consumed as taught or suggested by Gusavage.

ANSWERS TO APPLICANT'S ARGUMENTS

6. Applicant's arguments of 6/4/07 have been carefully considered but are moot in view of the new grounds for rejection set forth above.
